

Online Tailor - Is It A Good Idea

Should you really be dressed by an online tailor? Your first instinct when you are looking for a tailor is to look online because there are so many of them there, but you should give that a second thought. You want a tailor who is personal to you. You want someone who knows you, who knows your style, who knows what you already own in your wardrobe and who even knows the kind of work that you do. You will not find that in a random tailor that you find on the internet.

Your personal tailor should be like your doctor. Your doctor knows you and he knows your history too. He knows the issues that you have had in the past and he treats you based on that.

You can also think of your personal tailor as your lawyer; your lawyer knows you personally. He knows any issues that you have had in the past, he knows your possessions and in some cases, he even knows your finances. Your tailor doesn't have to know your finances but here are some things that he should know.

- He should know what you like and what you don't like when it comes to clothes and style.
- He should know your body type and skin color so that he can pick out the right colors for you. Your hair and eye color also matter. Remember, it's not enough to say that you are black or you are white. There are many shades of black skin just like there are many shades of white skin.

- He should know what you already own and whether you are satisfied with it. If you are, he can keep on dressing you that way but if you aren't, he can help you choose a new style.
- He should know the kind of work that you do. Some professions require a certain kind of style. If you work in security or banking for example, you may be inclined towards darker colors.
- He should be able to introduce you to new styles in the market. It is his job to keep up with what's new so that he can keep you updated. This way, you may find new styles to add to your wardrobe.
- He should know whether your body weight fluctuates.
- He should know the kind of occasions you attend so that he can attire you properly for them. He should also be able to prepare you properly for days when you need it, like when you are facing interviews.

As you can see, these are not things you will get if you go online and pick a tailor. The best way is to get a reference from someone who already has a personal tailor. This way, you know that someone has used them and is happy with the service they are getting. One of the best personal tailors is Sean McKee Clothiers. They have many clients who are more than happy with the service they are getting.
